To our valued clients,

I’m making this brief, since you are undoubtedly addressing a wide range of significant issues during this challenging time.

The maintenance, repair and installation of HVAC systems has been designated as an essential business during the COVID-19 crisis period. M&M has 84 years of expertise and is ready to serve you. Our personnel will adhere to the guidelines provided by the responsible government agencies as well as unique parameters required by you and your facilities. We are following all Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, United States Department of Labor, United States Department of Health and Human Services, and Illinois Department of Public Health suggestions to maintain a safe workplace.

We remain fully functional as an essential source of HVAC services and can be reached by the same phone, fax or electronic means that you are used to. Simply call upon us.

Thank you for your continued partnership during this time of uncertainty.

Sincerely,

James J. Miller
President & CEO
